*As the impact of COVID-19 has been significant since February 2020, the change in fluctuation compared with 2019 is also stated.

<Special Items>

In October 2023, the number of inbound visitors to Japan was +0.8% compared to the same month in 2019, exceeding the same month in 2019 for the first time since the spread of COVID-19. This result was led by inbound visitors from several countries and regions, including South Korea, Taiwan, the United States, and Australia. The domestic leisure demand also remains solid.

In the same month, the RevPAR of the 25 Hotels with Variable Rent owned by JHR was +11.4% compared to the same month in 2019, driven by ADR growth due to the continuous high unit-price sales strategy.

JHR will continue to implement the high unit price sales strategy at each hotel to further maximize RevPAR based on ADR growth as the accommodation market undergoes a full-scale recovery.
